CASE STUDY

A Little about Cirrologix

Established in 2012, Cirrologix is a global company built on the principle of promoting cloud based technology through its business applications. The company, dedicated to environmental sustainability issues, offers viable and scalable technologies. Headquartered at the IT hub of India in Bangalore, the company is expanding its services by enabling companies to reach the cloud and beyond.

Cirrologix's Challenge

The rampant usage of spread sheets to manage recruitment was the practice. Spread sheets had become the tool for tracking job openings, resumes, candidates, contacts, etc. The use of excel sheets did not vary according to the magnitude of the business.

Cirrologix offices maintained segregated pieces of recruitment information. This reduced the accessibility to the records at any location. The HR officer was located in one central office with no consolidated information of her employees. Instead she had to pull out each department's sheet individually to retrieve its candidate information.

EmployAstar Solution

By moving Cirrologix on to employAstar, we were able to help them share candidate information as well as automate their entire hiring process, from reviewing resumes to conducting interviews and more.

Now, the company can collect resumes from various sources and contact candidates quickly. Resumes sent to Cirrologix domain as email attachments can be automatically extracted and parsed, with the candidate details transferred directly into EmployAstar. The ability to automatically parse and transfer data into EmployAstar extends to resumes from social networking sites and other sources, too.

Using employAstar, Cirrologix is also in a better position to manage resumes and track candidates' progress throughout the recruitment process. Instead of static entries in a spread sheet, the company now has dynamic tools created expressly to help gather its resume database, schedule interviews, etc. Along with the ability to conduct the recruitment process seamlessly, but now the solution is completely scalable. The HR is able to draw reports and improve their recruitment process after identifying the glitches. employAstar has enabled and the overall recruitment workflow in EmployAstar can be customized to Cirrologix's unique recruitment process.

EmployAstar Impact

Since the transition to employAstar, Cirrologix HR team has gained a unified recruitment management system for all HR activities. Now, there are four people working with employAstar, and all office managers have access to the candidates and interviews. Overall recruitment activities are much better organized and centralized.
